

Crestwood Capital Advisors — Meeting Prep Brief

Borrower: Crestwood Capital Advisors · Wealth Management (IL) · RM: Tom DeLuca Relationship since: 2021 · Tier: Growth · Primary contact: James Whitmore, CEO As of: data current through 2025-05-31

Bottom line

Crestwood is a healthy, pristine relationship with a competing term sheet on the table and a renewal that has stalled in pricing. The radar fires retention-attention: engage now and close the renewal — do not let the pricing decision keep drifting. This is a "who am I about to lose?" situation, not a credit problem.

The relationship picture (facts)

- Growth-tier relationship since 2021; $3.2MM term loan, fixed 5.25%, office-acquisition / CRE collateral, personal guarantee (dossier: profile).
- Metrics are clean and improving: DSCR (TTM) 2.61x vs 1.15x covenant min; leverage 0.73 vs 2.5x max; current ratio 3.8; revolver 0%; 0 days past due; covenant status Compliant (latest_performance:2025-05).
- 0 deterioration signals; DSCR trend improving (flag_renewal_and_retention).
- No relationship memo on file (dossier: has_relationship_memo = false).

The renewal / maturity clock

- Matures 2026-08-31 — 457 days out as of 2025-05-31 (flag_renewal_and_retention).
- Next covenant due 2025-09-30 (dossier: profile).

The competitive situation

- First Midwest competing term sheet on record at 4.90% fixed since Feb 2025 (loan_performance:2025-02; activity_log:2025-02-12).
- Whitmore first surfaced First Midwest contact (deposits) Jan 2024, then "market-check" meetings through 2024 — soft signals not followed up at the time (activity_log:2024-01-30, 2024-09-18, 2025-01-20).
- Centerline counter offered 4/15: 5.05% fixed 5-yr, no prepay penalty yrs 4–5. Whitmore: "closer but still above First Midwest," asked for a 4.90% match, gave a 2-week deadline (activity_log:2025-04-15).
- Pricing-exception request to match 4.90% submitted 5/8; Whitmore's 2-week deadline expired May 13; RM emailed 5/12 asking for an extension while the exception was still in review (activity_log:2025-05-08, 2025-05-12).
- Attrition risk noted in the record (latest_performance notes; flag_renewal_and_retention).

How it drifted (timeline)

A 3/18 scheduled call with Whitmore was not completed (reconstructed from calendar; no RM log entry). Whitmore's 4/3 follow-up was explicitly frustrated and asked for a decision in 30–45 days. The proposal landed 4/15; pricing has been in limbo since. The pattern: soft competitive signals under-pursued → a real term sheet → a slow proposal → a pricing decision still owed.

Act before they shop us

- 1 Close the pricing decision. A pricing-committee decision on the 4.90% match exception is owed and overdue against the client's deadline — chase it to resolution before the meeting. (Pricing committee owns the rate; this brief recommends no price.)
- 2 Re-engage Whitmore directly and promptly given the expired deadline and his stated frustration — confirm he's still at the table.

3 Bring a clear answer, not another "going back to pricing."

4 Consider opening a relationship memo — none on file for a Growth-tier, 4-year client.
